

The Salvation Army Supportive Housing Program

The supportive housing program is designed to help men, women, and families navigate a new quality of life with a goal of permanent housing.

Our case managers meet individuals where they are to set up a goal plan which includes:

- employment
- school or training
- life skills
- community resources
- mainstream benefits.

All Residences operate from a Housing First philosophy with built in supportive services and 24-hour staffing. The goal is for any resident to find their own permanent, affordable housing within one to three months of entry.

These are community living environments so there are norms related to making the space feel warm and welcoming to all residents at all times, such as requested quiet hours and community contributions. In supportive housing, each client is asked to meet with their case manager every week. As a housing option, TSA can be part of your rental history. Residents pay a $50 move-in fee for their first month of stay to cover basic needs supplied at entry due within 45 days. Residents are drug screened upon move in, but results do not disqualify individuals from moving in.

The Suites (women) are set up like college dorms where there are two people to each room and shared, common living spaces including a restroom with private stalls and showers.

The Lodge (men) is set up as partitioned private bed and storage areas in a single, large room with shared, common living spaces including a restroom with private stalls and showers.
